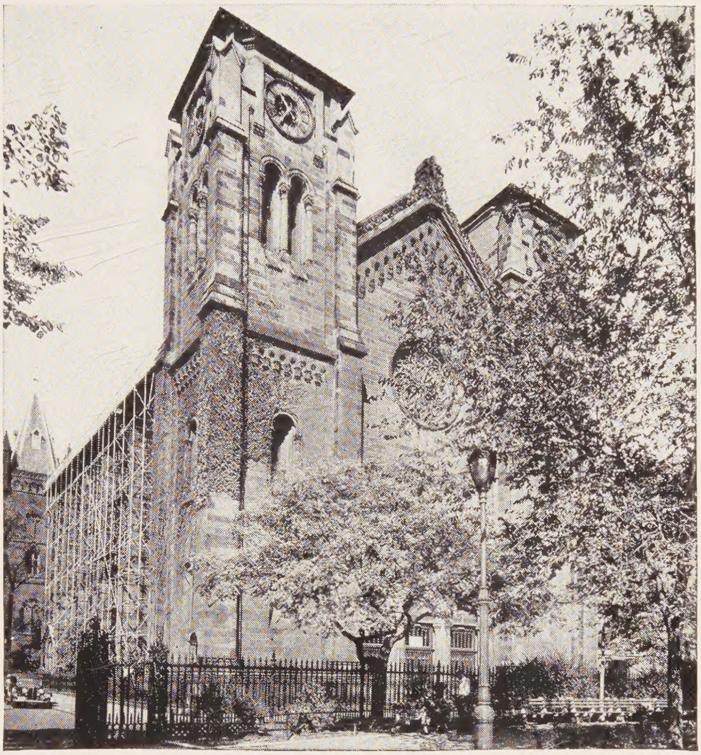
Philip Adams



Since 1849 Nicholson & Galloway have been specialists in the maintenance of ecclesiastical structures, with particular emphasis on roofs and masonry walls. The re-roofing of St. George's Church (Thomas M. Bell, Supervising architect), 16th Street at Stuyvesant Square, New York, is one of the fifty typical commissions we have executed in this, our 100th year. We invite inquiries about the preservation or repair of your church.

Above, our scaffolding on St. George's Church in place for a re-roofing program, using selected Vermont slate, new copper flashings and other time-honored building materials.

We are proud to have been selected as the printers of these biographies of Episcopal clergymen. The suitability of our printing and lithographing plant was recognized by the editors of "Stowe's Clerical Directory," as it has been by many other users of our product, and we appreciate their confidence. To all those whose names and achievements are listed herein, we extend our greetings and best wishes for continued growth.

MACMILLAN BOOKS

The Torch Bible Commentaries

General Editors: The Rev. JOHN MARSH, Mansfield College, Oxford; The Rev. ALAN RICHARDSON, The College, Durham; The Rev. R. GREGOR SMITH, Associate Editor, S.C.M. Press

A new and interesting series for the thoughtful reader who wishes to understand his Bible. The findings and views of modern critical scholarship on the text of the Bible have been taken fully into account. Indeed, it is the conviction of the Editors that only on a basis of sound scholarship can the message of the Bible be completely understood. But reader is constantly reminded that the Bible is more than a quarry for the practice of erudition; that it contains the living message of the living God.

Early volumes in the series will include:

Genesis i-xi, by Alan Richardson
Micah, by John Marsh
St. Mark, by A. M. Hunter
Hebrews, by A. M. Ramsey
Revelation, by R. Preston and A. Hanson

Each book will be uniformly priced at $2.25. Brief descriptions follow of the first two titles, which are scheduled for publication this season.

THE GOSPEL ACCORDING TO SAINT MARK. By A. M. Hunter

An admirable popularization of the earliest, simplest and shortest gospel that grew out of the Christian tradition. The comments are brief, pointed, memorable. Here is all essential information on the date, message and meaning of Mark.

THE REVELATION OF ST. JOHN THE DIVINE. By R. H. Preston and Anthony Hanson

This commentary brings out the permanent theological meaning behind the categories in which John clothes his thought. It shows, too, how far they are essential to an adequate Christian understanding of God and His purposes as they work out in the history of the world.

BUILDERS

7 EAST 42nd STREET NEW YORK 17, N. Y.

THE ROCKWELL NEWMAN COMPANY has been privileged to do restoration work on the outer walls of many Protestant Episcopal churches throughout the country; among them the magnificent edifice here illustrated, St. Peter's Church in Albany, N. Y., the second oldest in the United States.

Our firm, during more than thirty years, has contributed to the preservation of many historical structures. However, our work is not confined to the restoration of old buildings; many that were built more recently show greater water leakage after rainstorms than do the older ones.

In Albany we also worked on the Cathedral of All Saints. Christ Episcopal Church in East Orange, and the Church of the Holy Communion in South Orange, N. J., were among our clients. Important restoration work was done on Old Swede's Church in Wilmington, Del., St. Marks In-The-Bouwerie in New York City, Philipse Castle in North Tarrytown, N. Y., and the Washington Irving Home at Sunnyside, Tarrytown, N. Y. Important work was entrusted to us by Princeton University, the YMCA in Greenwich, Conn., Orange, N. J., White Plains, N. Y., and many other institutions.

Morelite IN YOUR CHURCH THAT'S LIGHT ON YOUR BUDGET

This church, which took the Christian Herald Prize in 1928, was equipped with very handsome wrought-iron chandeliers which undoubtedly gave enough light to satisfy the congregation of that day. Recently, however, a study was undertaken to find inexpensive means of providing more light on the pews—without spoiling the general effect. The choice was Rambusch MORELITE. Behind each truss there are four of these units installed. They are adjusted to throw their light in a slightly forward direction down over the pews, providing ample yet inconspicuous reading light. This is typical of many churches throughout the country where a marked improvement in lighting can be attained by simple and economical means. Why not let Rambusch solve your lighting problem? While the question is uppermost in your mind send for a copy of our Church Lighting Questionnaire.

Foreword

The 1950 edition of Stowe's Clerical Directory is the sixteenth edition since the Directory was first issued as Lloyd's Clerical Directory in 1898. It later became the American Church Directory, and then Stowe's Clerical Directory with the issue of 1917 when the Reverend Andrew D. Stowe, D.D., took on the responsibility for preparing it. In 1940 The Church Pension Fund took it over on the suggestion of Mrs. Grace Stowe Fish, at that time the proprietor and editor. The Directory is a triennial publication. The editions of 1941 and 1947 (the 1944 edition was omitted because paper was not available under wartime restrictions) and now the 1950 book are publications of The Church Hymnal Corporation, publishing subsidiary of the Fund.

By the nature of its operations the Fund is one of the more important data-collecting units of the Church. It is continually in touch with the clergy and Church officials on pension matters, and has served also since 1943, by appointment of General Convention, as Recorder of ordinations and related occurrences. These activities are centered, at its office in New York City, in its most efficient Assistant Secretary, Miss Marjorie Hillman. The high standard of editorship of the Directory derives from her work.

This is an important publication. The biographies include addresses, dates, family data, churches served and other positions and offices. Its main value is as a reference book for use by the clergy, the parishes and the diocesan organizations. The editor has taken all reasonable care in achieving accuracy. The cooperation of the clergy themselves in supplying the biographical data is very necessary to maintaining the standard of accuracy and inclusiveness. Some (a very few) choose not to answer requests for information. To this extent incompleteness exists. This is unfortunate. But for the most part the clergy have cooperated fully.

The Directory is not a profit venture. It cannot be. As true of many directories this one is invaluable to those who use it but the number using it is not large when the meeting of publication costs is the concern. These costs are not covered completely by the proceeds of sales and the income from the advertisement pages—incidentally a very useful section of the book to those who own it.

The possibilty is being explored of including photographs of the clergy as an additional interest focus. The cost of doing this could be covered if it led to greatly increased purchases of the book. The historical value of a step of this sort—the Directory as an historical record cannot be overstated—can readily be imagined. The current interest and usefulness would be enhanced in even greater degree.

We urge the clergy and officials of the Church to make full use of the Directory, and suggest that those who are familiar with it bring it to the attention of others who have use for it and prevail upon local public and other libraries to carry the book on their shelves.

NO SACRED COWS

✠ The Churchman has no "sacred cows." Its policy is frankly liberal — using the word in its exact sense. The paper reflects varied opinion in the Protestant Episcopal Church and outside of it. Its own point of view — with which many readers, being literate persons who think for themselves, frequently take issue — is expressed in its editorial columns. Such a free press is one of the most precious assets of the church and the social order.

✠ Published under the sponsorship of The Churchman Associates, it relies for its continued freedom and constructive contribution to an alert and progressive church upon the support of friends of progress.
